Re: Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., Docket Nos. RP00-327-00_, RP00-604-00_

Dear Secretary Bose:

In compliance with the order issued by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (“FERC” or “Commission”) on August 18, 2009 in these proceedings,¹ Columbia Gas Transmission, LLC (“Columbia”) hereby submits for filing an updated Segmentation Report (“2009 Segmentation Report”) covering the initial 12-month period of the operation of Columbia’s new electronic bulletin board system, Navigates, from August 1, 2008 through July 31, 2009.

Statement of Nature, Reasons and Basis

On June 1, 2005, Columbia filed a report (“Segmentation Report”) in compliance with the Commission’s order in this proceeding issued July 19, 2002.² The July 19 Order directed Columbia to file a Segmentation Report providing information related to segmentation on its system during the first year of operation. In the August 18 Order, the Commission generally accepted the Segmentation Report, but directed Columbia to file a report with the Commission on or before November 1, 2009 to update the data contained in the Segmentation Report. The Commission held that the 2009 Segmentation Report must: (1) cover the initial 12-month period of the operation of Navigates from August 1, 2008 through July 31, 2009; (2) include a detailed description of any system developments which have modified or could modify the operational characteristics of Columbia’s system and their impact on the implementation of segmentation on its system; and (3) provide the same level of detail as provided in the Segmentation Report in this proceeding.³

In compliance with these directives, Columbia has included as Attachment A to this filing an updated chart reflecting all segmentation requests for the period August 1, 2008 through July 31, 2009. The chart reflects: (1) the identification of all segmentation requests; (2) the amount of time Columbia required to grant or deny each request; and (3) the reason(s) for any denial.⁴ As reflected in Attachment A, during the period August 1, 2009 through July 31, 2009, Columbia received 521 segmentation requests and immediately approved all received requests.

Columbia's Segmentation Pool has developed into a valuable market for Columbia's shippers, as evidenced by the fact that Columbia received almost twice as many segmentation requests in this period as it did in its first year of implementation.⁵ Columbia also affirms that there have been no changes in the operational characteristics of Columbia's system that would affect Columbia's ability to offer segmentation based on physical paths. As the Commission found in the July 19 Order, Columbia's system is still highly reticulated, and thus there are no "predictable and sustainable flow patterns on Columbia's system that would support physical pathed segmentation."⁶ As the number of segmented contracts suggest, Columbia's segmentation pooling program is an effective program that continues to be the most just and reasonable method of implementing segmentation on Columbia's system.

Columbia has identified only one administrative issue that has resulted from the implementation of Navigates. When a shipper segments a service agreement, it results in the creation of two contracts: a "Supply Segment" (from the receipt point to the Segmentation Pool) and a "Market Segment" contract (from the Segmentation Pool to the delivery point). Under GTC Section 40.1(a), shippers nominating on their "Supply Segment" contracts are not subject to retainage charges; retainage is only assessed on deliveries from the Segmentation Pool to the shipper's delivery point. As a result, retainage on a segmented contract is only collected at the receipt point under the Market Segment contract (i.e., it is collected at the Segmentation Pool). Accordingly, Navigates was programmed so that the retainage portion of nominations into the Segmentation Pool under the Supply Segment contract were treated as overruns of the shipper's transportation demand, since there is no retainage applicable to the Supply Segment contract. Columbia intends to immediately return to its prior practice of allowing shippers to "gross-up" their nominations on their Supply Segment contracts to include retainage that is collected on the Market Segment contracts. This will ensure that shippers are able to transport their full transportation demand from the Market Segment to their delivery point.

However, in the course of evaluating this issue, Columbia has identified another area of concern. Since the implementation of segmentation on its system (both before and after the new EBB system was put into place), Columbia has not enforced GTC Section 40.1(a) and (b), which limits the transportation demand on the Supply Segment and the Market Segment contracts to the "available Transportation Demand of the firm transportation service agreement being segmented."⁷ This provision is consistent with the Commission's holding in Order No. 637-A that "[a]s a general matter, pipelines are not required to permit segmentation in a situation where the nominations by a shipper or a combination of releasing and replacement shippers exceed the contract demand of the underlying contract on any segment.”⁸ As a result, Columbia has allowed deliveries into the Segmentation Pool that have exceeded the transportation demand set forth in the Supply Segment Contract. At the same time, shippers have the right to transport their full remaining transportation demand on their underlying service agreement as primary firm capacity. As Columbia does not assess overruns, this practice has, in essence, allowed shippers to transport gas in excess of their transportation basis on a firm basis at no charge.

⁴ In the July 19 Order, the Commission also directed Columbia to include "(4) the reason(s) for such changes; and (5) the amount of interruptible volumes transported by Columbia to these upstream delivery Market Areas." July 19 Order at P 51. However, these items concern Columbia's secondary point allocation and thus are not included in the 2009 Segmentation Report.

So that, on a going forward basis, segmentation is implemented in a manner that is consistent with both Columbia’s tariff and Commission policy, effective December 1, 2009, Columbia will no longer accept nominations into the Segmentation Pool that exceed the transportation demand of segmented contract. In addition to complying with Columbia’s tariff and Commission policy, this change will ensure that Columbia can permit shippers to include retainage in their nominations into the Segmentation Pool.

Columbia respectfully requests that the Commission determine that Columbia’s segmentation pooling plan, subject to the administrative changes discussed above, are just and reasonable and consistent with the Commission’s segmentation policies as set forth in Order No. 637.
